President's Award Recipient

Matthew S. Klinger

President Ladner has inaugurated this year a new recognition for excellence —The President's Award—presented to the graduating senior who best exemplifies the American University experience. The President has selected Matthew Scott Klinger of the School of International Service to receive the award for 1995.

During his undergraduate career, Matthew has demonstrated the attributes the University strives to foster: academic achievement and intellectual curiosity; integrity and selflessness in citizenship; leadership and service to the community; and building community through promoting the understanding and acceptance of cultural and racial diversity.

Matthew is graduating magna cum laude with University Honors. He has been on the Dean's List every term, is a member of the SIS honor society, and has been inducted into the University's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. In addition to his scholarly achievements, Matthew has been a leader in student government, having served as president of the SIS Undergraduate Cabinet in his junior year. He is a Resident Assistant in Anderson Hall and a member of the student judiciary and disciplinary council. In recognition of his contributions to the campus, he also is this year's winner of the Student Award for Outstanding Service, presented yesterday at the University Honors Convocation.

Matthew is also an outstanding athlete. He turned down offers to play professionally with the Chicago White Sox, choosing instead to pursue his education and to play on and coach intramural teams in four sports. He has also made the time to be head coach of a boys basketball team at a junior high school in the District of Columbia.

Following graduation, Matthew will begin a graduate program in European Studies at the University of Bradford as a British Marshall Scholar. He is The American University's first recipient of this prestigious academic award, and one of only forty scholars chosen by the British government to study for advanced degrees in the United Kingdom.

Honorary Degree Recipients

H. M. Queen Noor of Jordan

Queen Noor was born Lisa Najeeb Halaby in 1951 into a prominent Arab-American family. After earning a B.A. in Architecture and Urban Planning from Princeton University in 1974, she became active in international urban planning and design projects in Australia, Iran, the United States, and Jordan. In 1976 her work took her to Jordan, where she undertook development of a master plan for the Arab Air University to be established in Amman. Subsequently, she joined the Royal Jordanian Airline as Director of Planning and Design Projects.

King Hussein and Queen Noor were married in 1978. They have two sons and two daughters. Her Majesty is also mother to a son and a daughter from His Majesty's previous marriage, and to an adopted daughter, Abir Muhaisen, who is receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Elementary Education from The American University today.

Queen Noor directs her efforts towards long-term objectives concerned with developing and enhancing the quality of life in Jordan. Her Majesty initiates, directs, and sponsors projects and activities that respond to national needs in the areas of education, culture, environmental protection, social welfare, public architecture and planning, child care, women's development, and international understanding. To promote international understanding, Her Majesty has been an active participant in conferences sponsored by The American University's Center for the Study of the Global South and serves as chair of its advisory board. She has also spoken on behalf of the Center at international conferences.

In recognition of her contribution to and social development in Jordan and her role in promoting international exchange, Queen Noor has been awarded honorary doctorates by various universities. Given her special relationship with The American University, it is our great pleasure to honor Her Majesty today by conferring upon her the degree Doctor of International Relations, honoris causa.

Charles E. Guggenheim

Throughout the world, Charles Guggenheim is known as a premier documentary filmmaker and producer. In the past thirty years, four of his films chronicling some of America's most significant moments of glory and despair have won Oscars from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences: "RFK Remembered," on the late senator's life and death; "Nine from Little Rock," about the Arkansas school integration crisis; "The Johnstown Flood," recreating one of the most famous natural and man-made disasters in American history; and this year, "A Time for Justice," an account of the civil rights struggle in the south during the fifties and sixties. Three of his other documentaries received Academy Award Nominations.

Mr. Guggenheim's films are regularly viewed by visitors to the museum at Ellis Island and his documentaries set the tone for visitors to the Kennedy, Johnson, and Truman presidential libraries. During the early days of television his series, "Sunday at the Zoo," won the George Foster Peabody award. He is recognized as a pioneer in the field of ethical political advertising. During the sixties and seventies he directed the media campaigns of more than eighty candidates for president, governor, congress, and other public offices—including Robert F. Kennedy, George McGovern, Albert Gore, Governor Pat Brown of California, and Senators Philip Hart of Michigan and John Danforth of Missouri.

The body of Mr. Guggenheim's work is so prominent and well-regarded that his films are studied as revered texts in our own School of Communication and elsewhere. For the exceptional quality, scope, and depth of his work over his long and illustrious career, The American University is proud to confer upon Charles E. Guggenheim the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

The Tradition of Commencement at The American University

The American University awarded its first degrees (two doctorates and one master's) at a commencement ceremony held in the university's amphitheater in 1916. Over the years, commencements have grown and changed as the university has grown larger and more diverse. Today, the university marks its 101st commencement. More than 1600 students from the diverse disciplines of the arts and sciences, law, business, public affairs, international service, and communication will participate in commencement ceremonies this spring.

We are delighted that H. M. Queen Noor and Charles E. Guggenheim are participating with us as honorary degree recipients today. They join a distinguished list of university honorees, including U.S. Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and William J. Clinton, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Congresswoman Barbara C. Jordan, distinguished editor and publisher Norman Cousins, astronomer Carl Sagan, symphony conductor Mstislav Rostropovich, statesman Alexander Dubcek, ambassador Robert Strauss, author Alex Haley, television journalist Ted Koppel, historian Henry Steele Commager, businessman J. Willard Marriott and economist John Kenneth Galbraith, to name a few.

We take pride in this long and distinguished tradition of commencements as we celebrate the achievements of today's graduating class.

Academic Regalia

The history of academic dress dates to medieval European universities of the fourteenth century. Originally, universities used the same costumes as religious orders, which established most early universities. These costumes consisted of the customary clerical robe and hood, worn for utilitarian purposes.

When universities achieved identity as educational institutions rather than extensions of religious orders, the design and the symbolism of their regalia began to change. Universities in Europe (and in overseas areas culturally tied to Europe) developed colorful gowns and caps, and the hood became a designator of degrees instead of a piece of headgear.

During the past two decades an increasing number of American institutions have adopted gowns and caps that incorporate their official colors. This change began decades ago when Harvard University introduced its crimson doctoral gown. That dramatic new gown prompted other institutions to try to match its resplendence. The American University's distinctive red, white, and blue regalia was introduced at the university's eighty-seventh commencement in the spring of 1988.

Participants in academic ceremonies normally wear the academic regalia to which they are entitled by virtue of the degrees they hold. The field of study in which a degree was earned is identified in accord with a standard code of colors. Although different universities use different systems, often the colors below are used as the edging of hoods for all degrees, and they may be used as part of the decoration of doctor's gowns and sometimes for tassels on caps:

| | |
|---|---|
| Arts, Letters, Humanities | White |
| Commerce, Accountancy, Business | Drab |
| Economics | Copper |
| Education | Light Blue |
| Fine Arts | Brown |
| Journalism | Crimson |
| Law | Purple |
| Library Science | Lemon |
| Music | Pink |
| Nursing | Apricot |
| Philosophy | Dark Blue |
| Physical Education | Sage Green |
| Public Administration (including Foreign Service) | Peacock Blue |
| Public Health | Salmon Pink |
| Science | Golden Yellow |
| Social Work | Citron |
| Theology | Scarlet |

Spring 1995
Degree Candidates

The following students have applied to receive degrees as of spring 1995. The university awards degrees only after certifying that all degree requirements have been satisfied.

Graduation honors listed for individual students are projections based upon the cumulative grade point average at the conclusion of the fall 1994 semester. These designations are subject to verification at the time of final degree clearance.

Students who are projected to graduate with Latin honors and/or University honors wear gold hoods during the commencement ceremony.
