Honorary Degree Recipient

Charles A. Bowsher

Charles A. Bowsher, Comptroller General of the United States, is the nation's chief auditor. He heads the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigative and auditing arm of Congress, which serves as the nation's watchdog against waste, fraud, and mismanagement. The GAO was one of the first agencies to warn about the savings and loan crises, and has reported extensively on the federal bailout that followed massive losses in the thrift industry.

President Reagan appointed Mr. Bowsher to a fifteen-year term as Comptroller General in 1981 in recognition of his extensive experience in both the public and private sectors. He was associated with Arthur Andersen & Co. for twenty-five years. His four-year stint as Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Financial Management earned him Distinguished Public Service Awards from the Navy and the Department of Defense.

Mr. Bowsher is active in numerous professional organizations and advisory boards. He received the MBA that launched his distinguished career from the University of Chicago in 1956. Today we celebrate his achievements by conferring on him the degree Doctor of Public Service, honoris causa.

President's Award Recipient

Ethan Rosenzweig

Ethan Rosenzweig has been called "the model of the involved scholar." He is known and respected in the School of Public Affairs and throughout the campus for his extraordinary service to the university and the Washington, D.C. community.

His energy and involvement in activities is legend among his peers and the faculty. He has worked in the residence halls as a resident assistant, served as a registration assistant and peer advisor to freshmen, assisted the admissions office with open houses and tours, worked on the summer housing and conferences staff, and served on numerous campus committees. This year he played a key role in raising funds for the senior class gift and was chosen Homecoming King. But Ethan is probably best known for his pioneering effort to establish the Freshman Urban Experience, which involves incoming freshmen in community service work with under-privileged children and adults in the city. Under his leadership the program has grown in three years from fifteen students to over a hundred. With all this, he has maintained an academic average of A- in his major and is graduating cum laude with University Honors.

Although recognized as "the type of person who is at the very core of the university's Statement of Common Purpose," Ethan remains modest and unassuming about his achievements. Today—as he concludes his undergraduate career—we are delighted to celebrate them with the 1996 President's Award.

The Tradition of Commencement at American University

The American University awarded its first degrees (two doctorates and one master's) at a commencement ceremony held in the university's amphitheater in 1916. Over the years, commencements have grown and changed as the university has grown larger and more diverse. Today, the university marks its 103rd commencement. More than 1600 students from the diverse disciplines of the arts and sciences, law, business, public affairs, international service, and communication will participate in commencement ceremonies this spring.

We are delighted that Charles A. Bowsher is participating with us as an honorary degree recipient today. He joins a distinguished list of university honorees, including U.S. Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, and William J. Clinton, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Congresswoman Barbara C. Jordan, distinguished editor and publisher Norman Cousins, astronomer Carl Sagan, symphony conductor Mstislav Rostropovich, statesman Alexander Dubchek, ambassador Robert Strauss, author Alex Haley, television journalist Ted Koppel, historian Henry Steele Commager, businessman J. Willard Marriott and economist John Kenneth Galbraith, to name a few.

We take pride in this long and distinguished tradition of commencement as we celebrate the achievements of today's graduating class.

Academic Regalia

The history of academic dress dates to medieval European universities of the fourteenth century. Originally universities used the same attire as the religious orders which established them. These costumes consisted of the customary clerical robe and hood, worn for utilitarian purposes.

When universities achieved identity as educational institutions rather than extensions of religious orders, the design and the symbolism of their regalia began to change. Universities in Europe and other areas culturally tied to Europe developed colorful gowns and caps, and the hood became a designator of degrees earned instead of a piece of headgear.

Many American institutions have adopted caps and gowns that incorporate their official colors. This change began decades ago when Harvard University introduced its crimson doctoral gown. That dramatic new gown prompted other institutions to try to match its resplendence. The American University's distinctive red, white, and blue regalia was introduced at the university's eighty-seventh commencement in the spring of 1988.

Participants in academic ceremonies normally wear the academic regalia to which they are entitled by virtue of the degrees they hold. The field of study in which a degree was earned is identified in accord with a standard code of colors. Although universities may use different systems, the colors below are commonly used as the edging of hoods to denote degrees. They may also be used as part of the decoration of doctor's gowns or tassels on caps.

Spring 1996
Degree Candidates

The following students have applied to receive degrees as of spring 1996. The university awards degrees only after certifying that all degree requirements have been satisfied.

Graduation honors listed for individual students are projections based upon the cumulative grade point average at the conclusion of the fall 1995 semester. These designations are subject to verification at the time of final degree clearance.

Students who are projected to graduate with Latin honors and/or University honors wear gold hoods during the commencement ceremony.
