WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF LAW

WASHINGTON, D. C.

FOREWORD

The Editors and Staff take pleasue in presenting this, the 1940 issue of THE BRIEF, to the faculty and student body. The theme chosen for this year's publication is "Leaders of American Jurisprudence."

DEDICATION

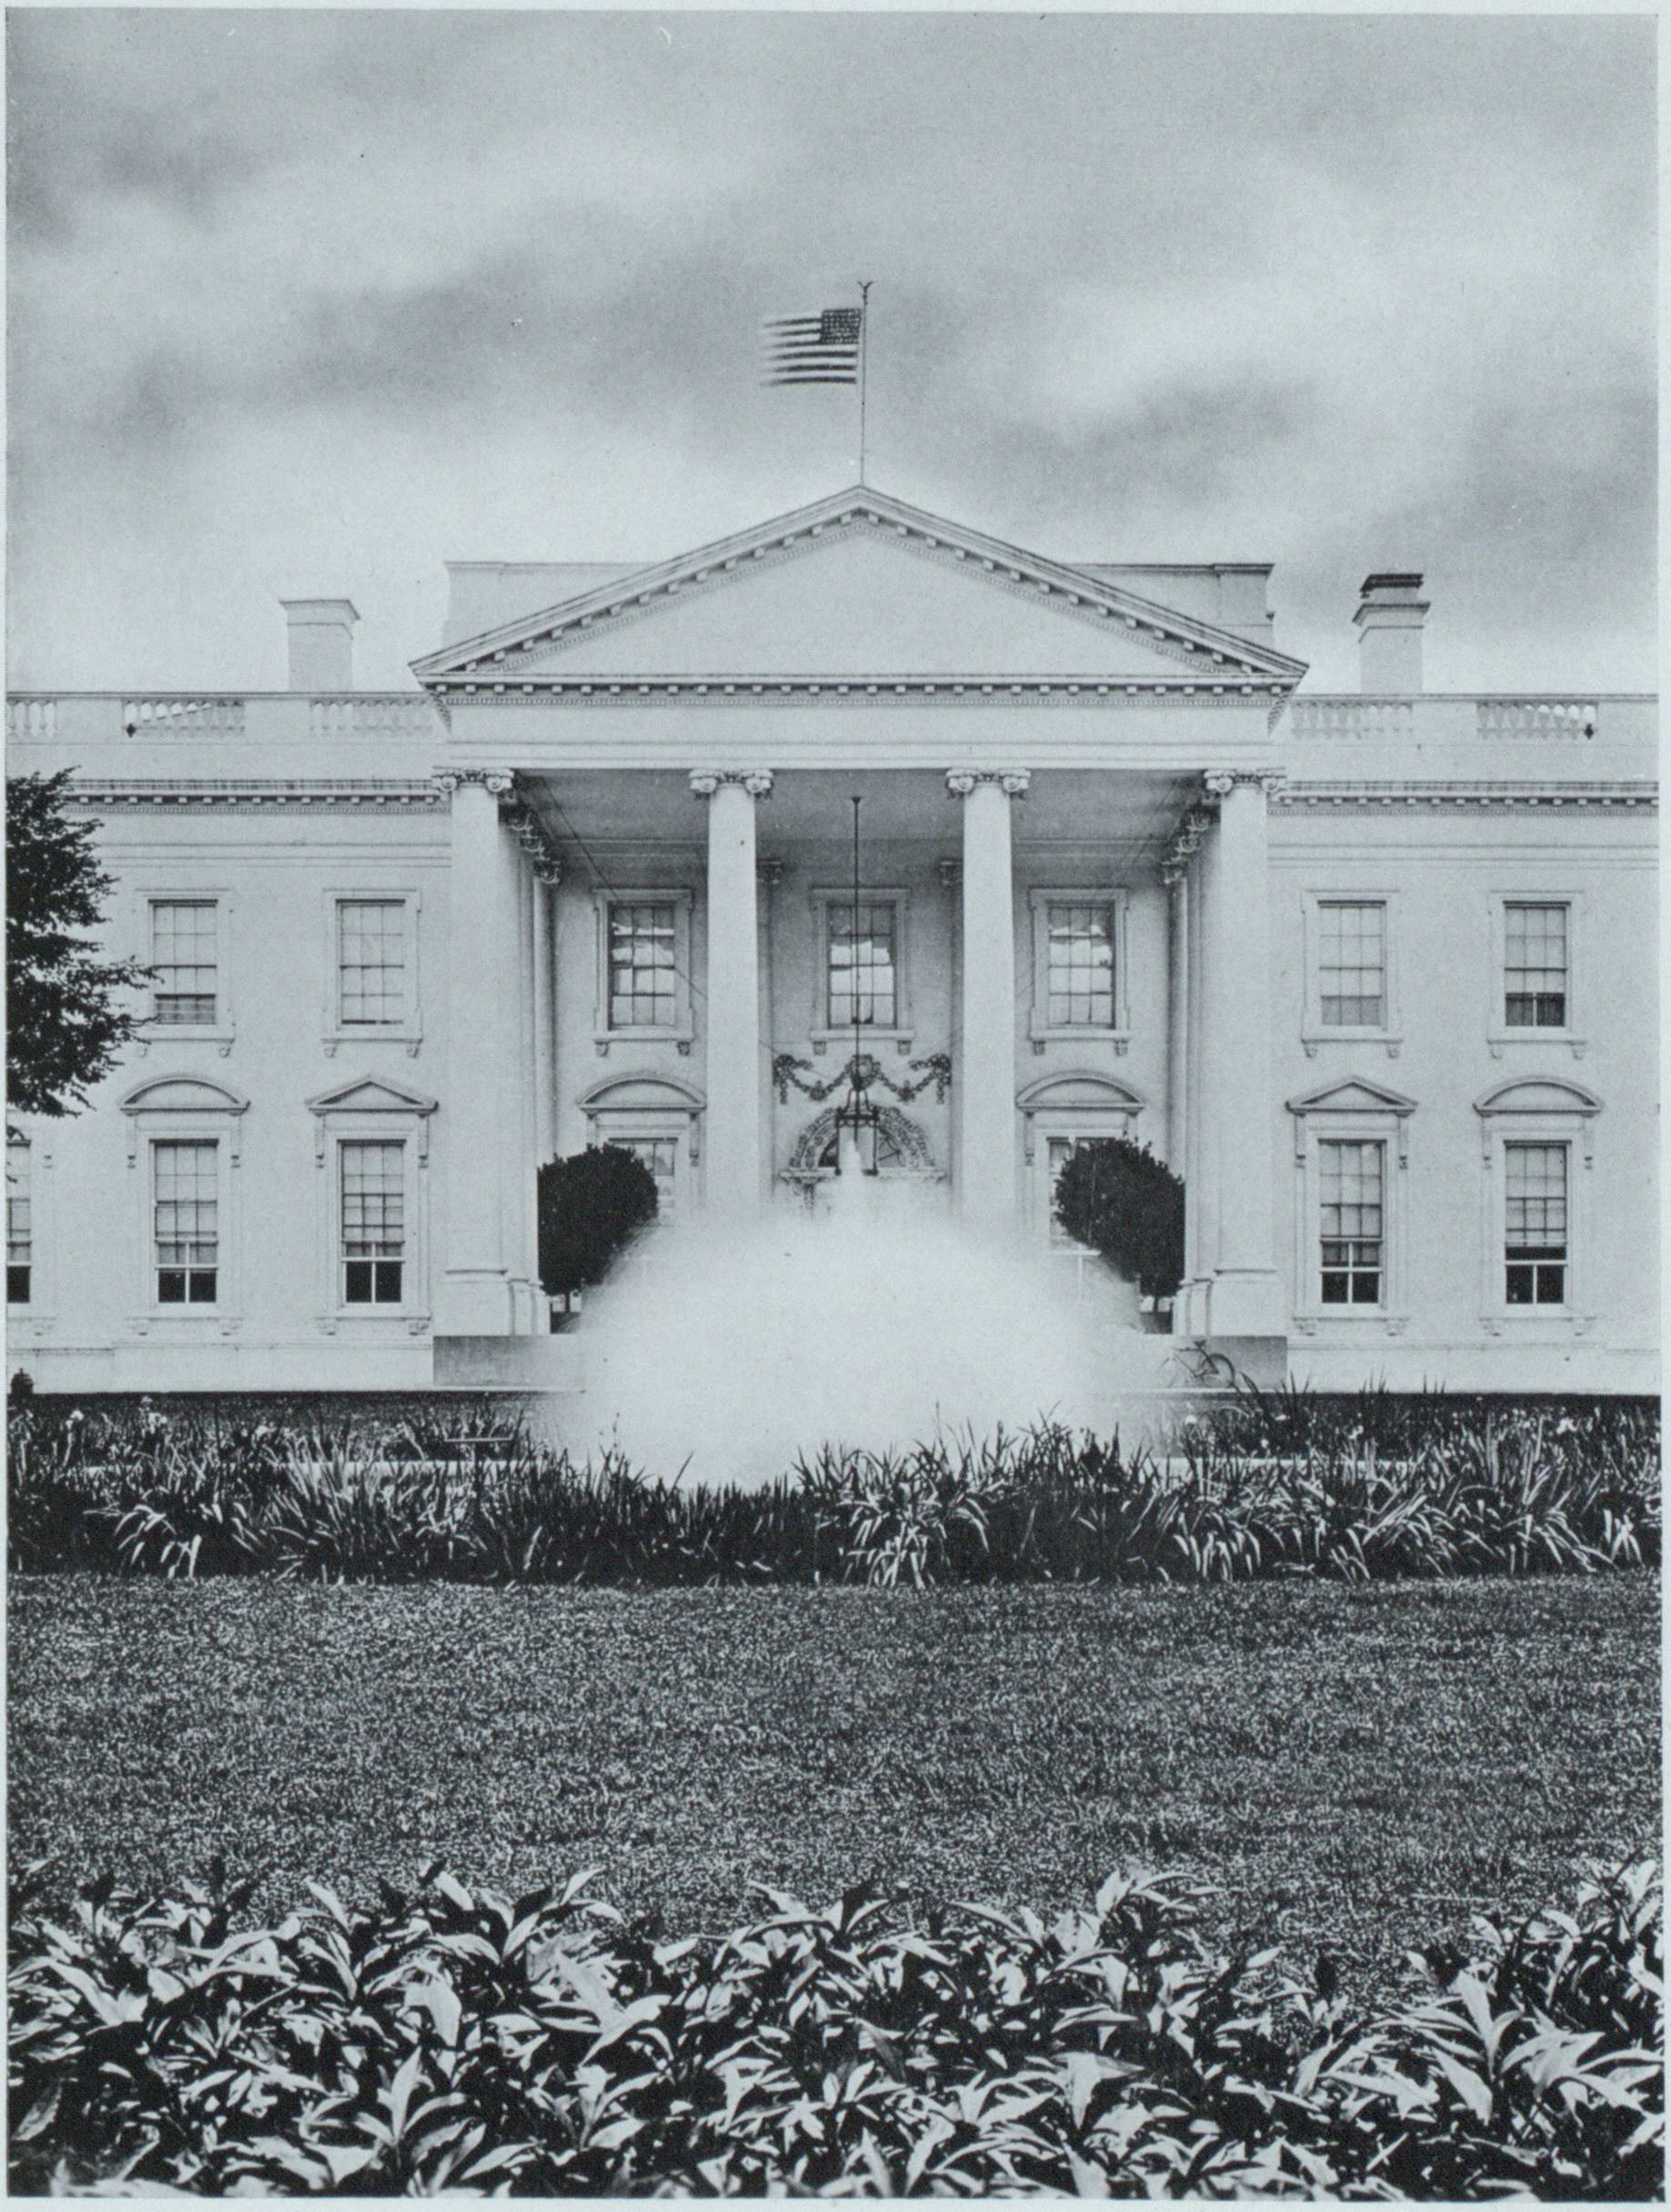
FEW men in the brief span of three years have exerted as lasting an influence upon the graduating students of Washington College of Law. By his words, actions and manner, he has won the respect and admiration of all with whom he has come in contact. In recognition of the many services he has rendered the College and the inspiring example he has set for all, the Editors dedicate this volume of the BRIEF to Professor Hinman D. Folsom.

Article I

All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives.

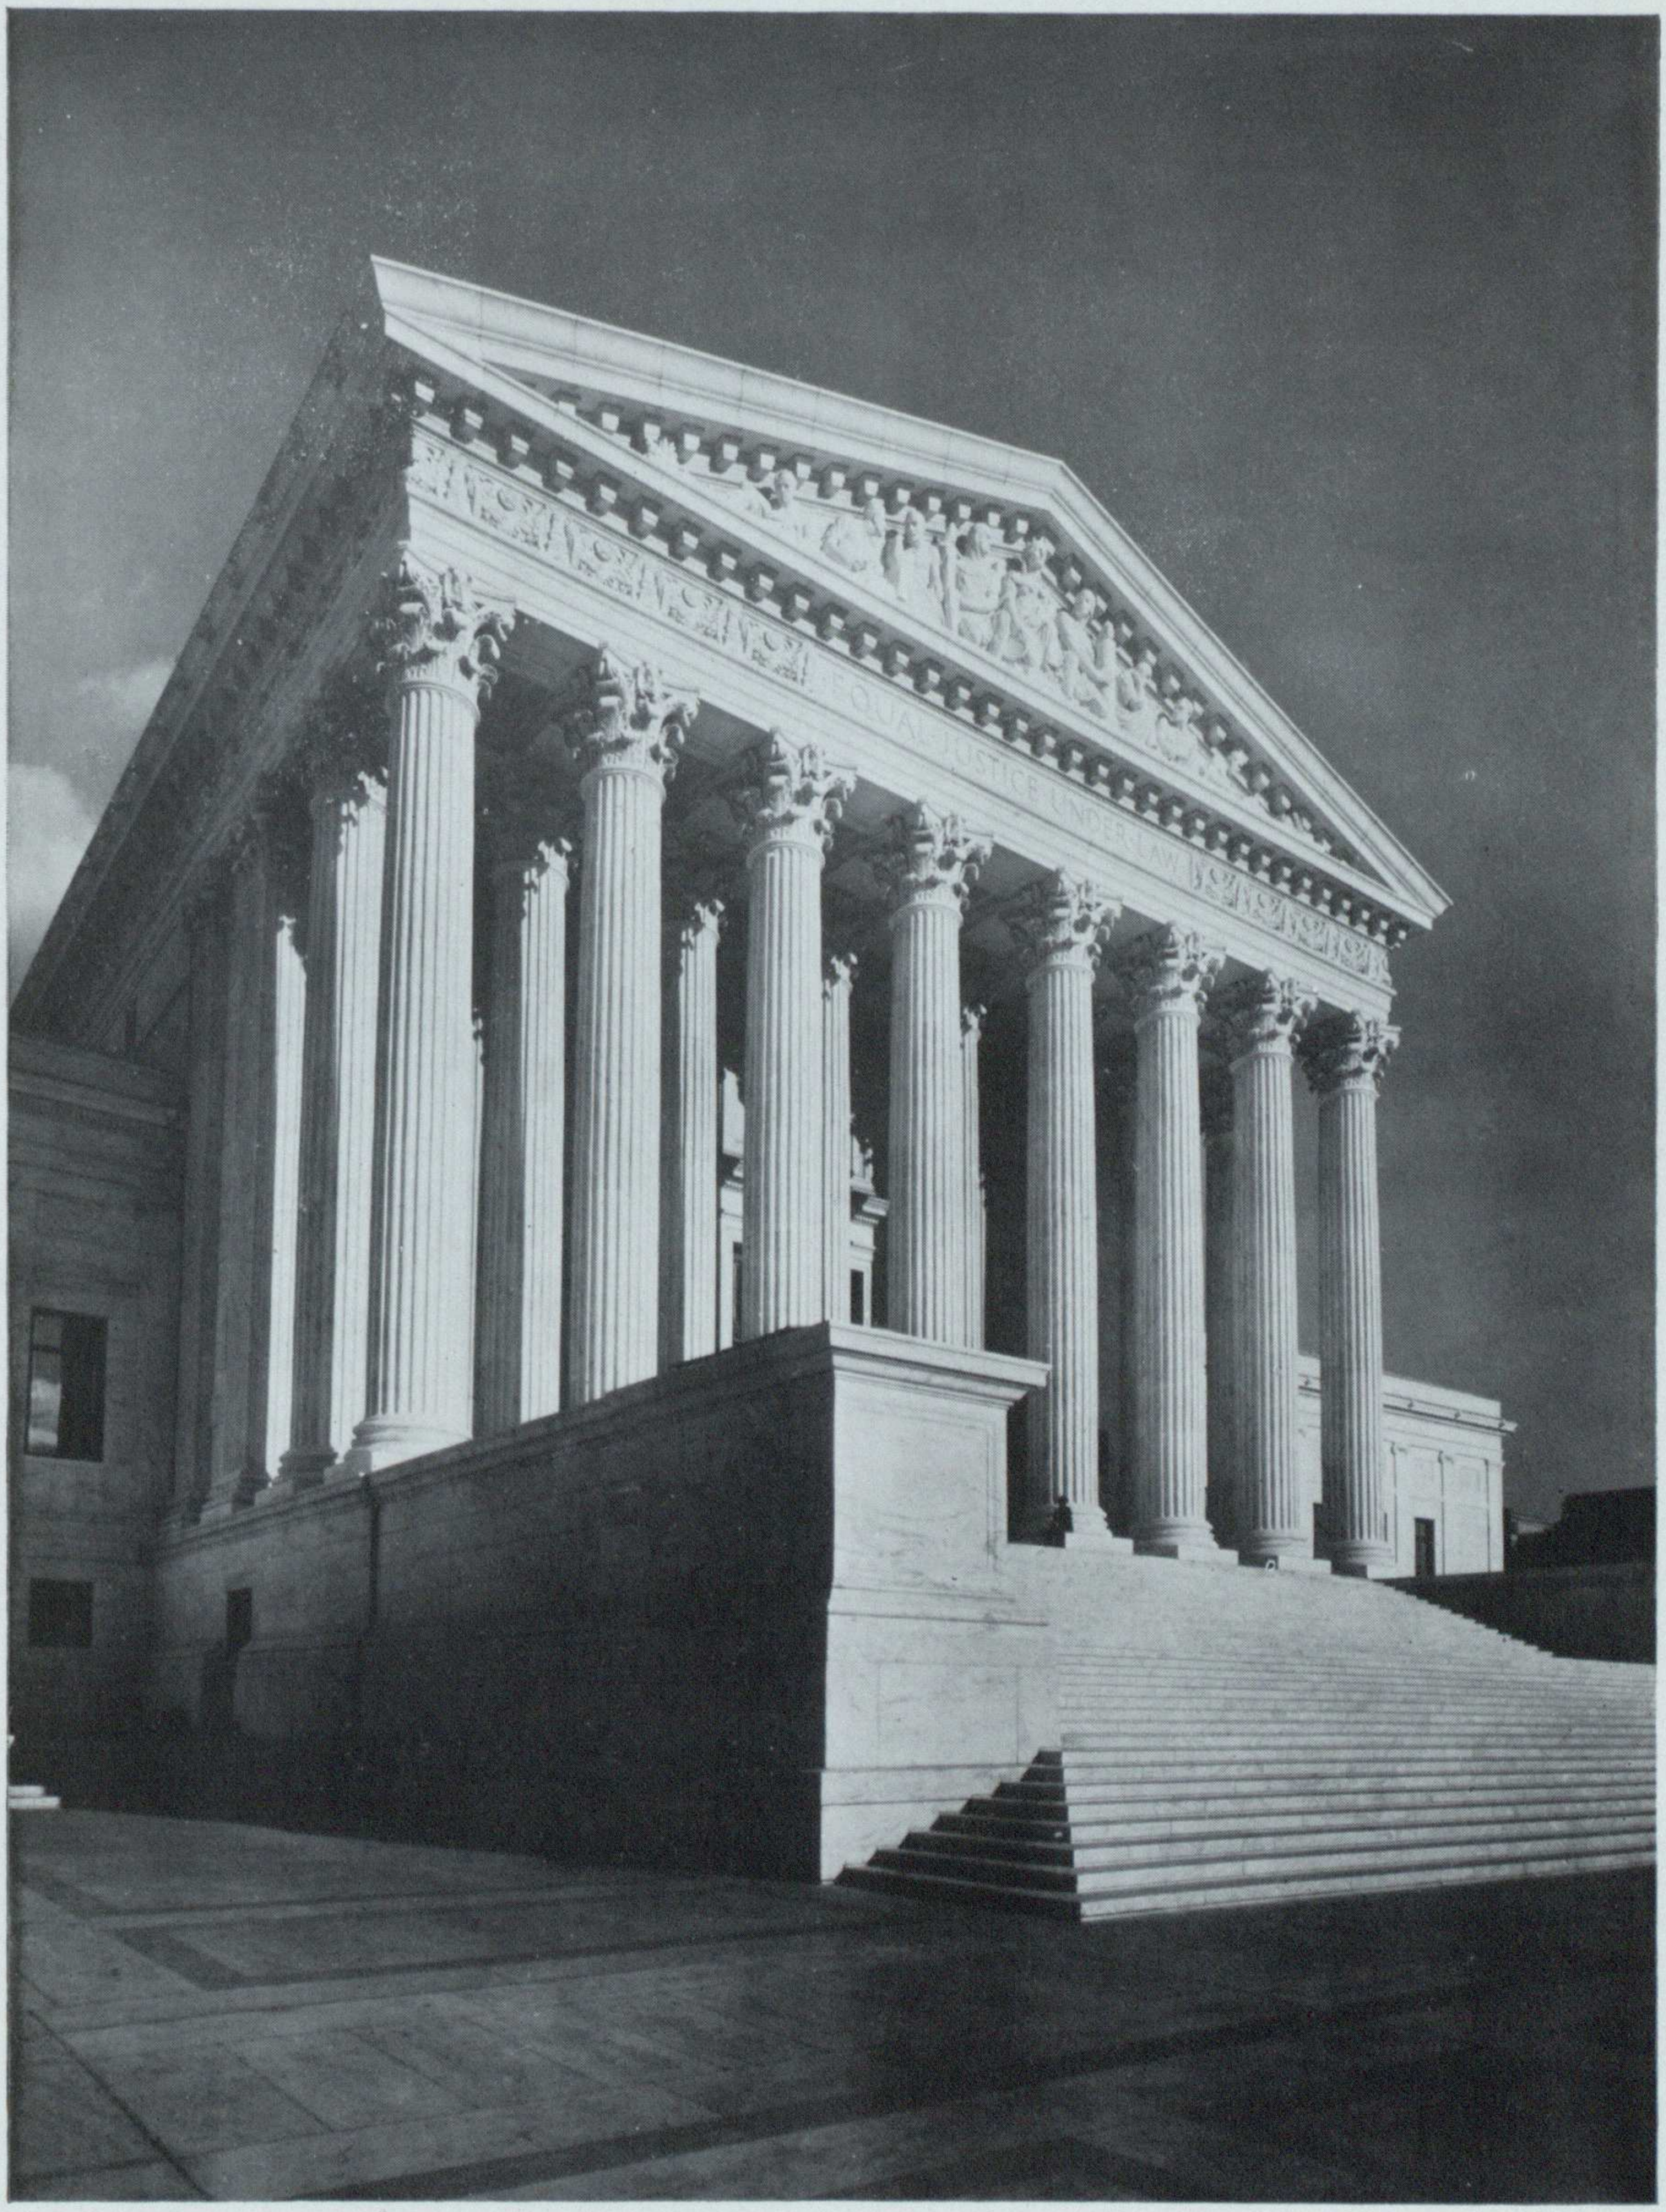
Article II

The Executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America.

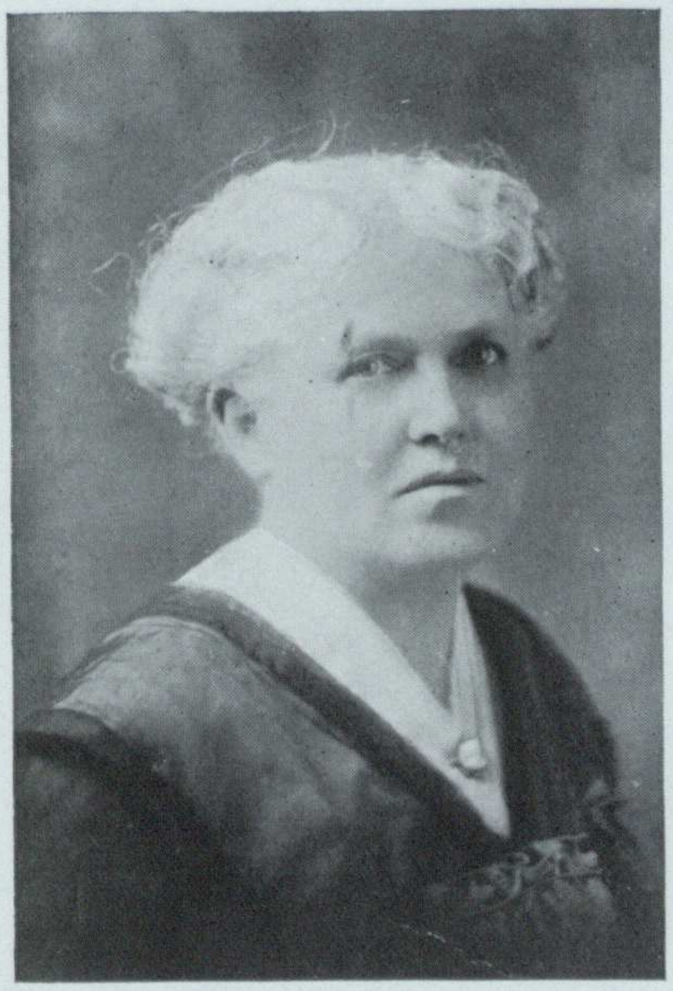


Article III

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court.

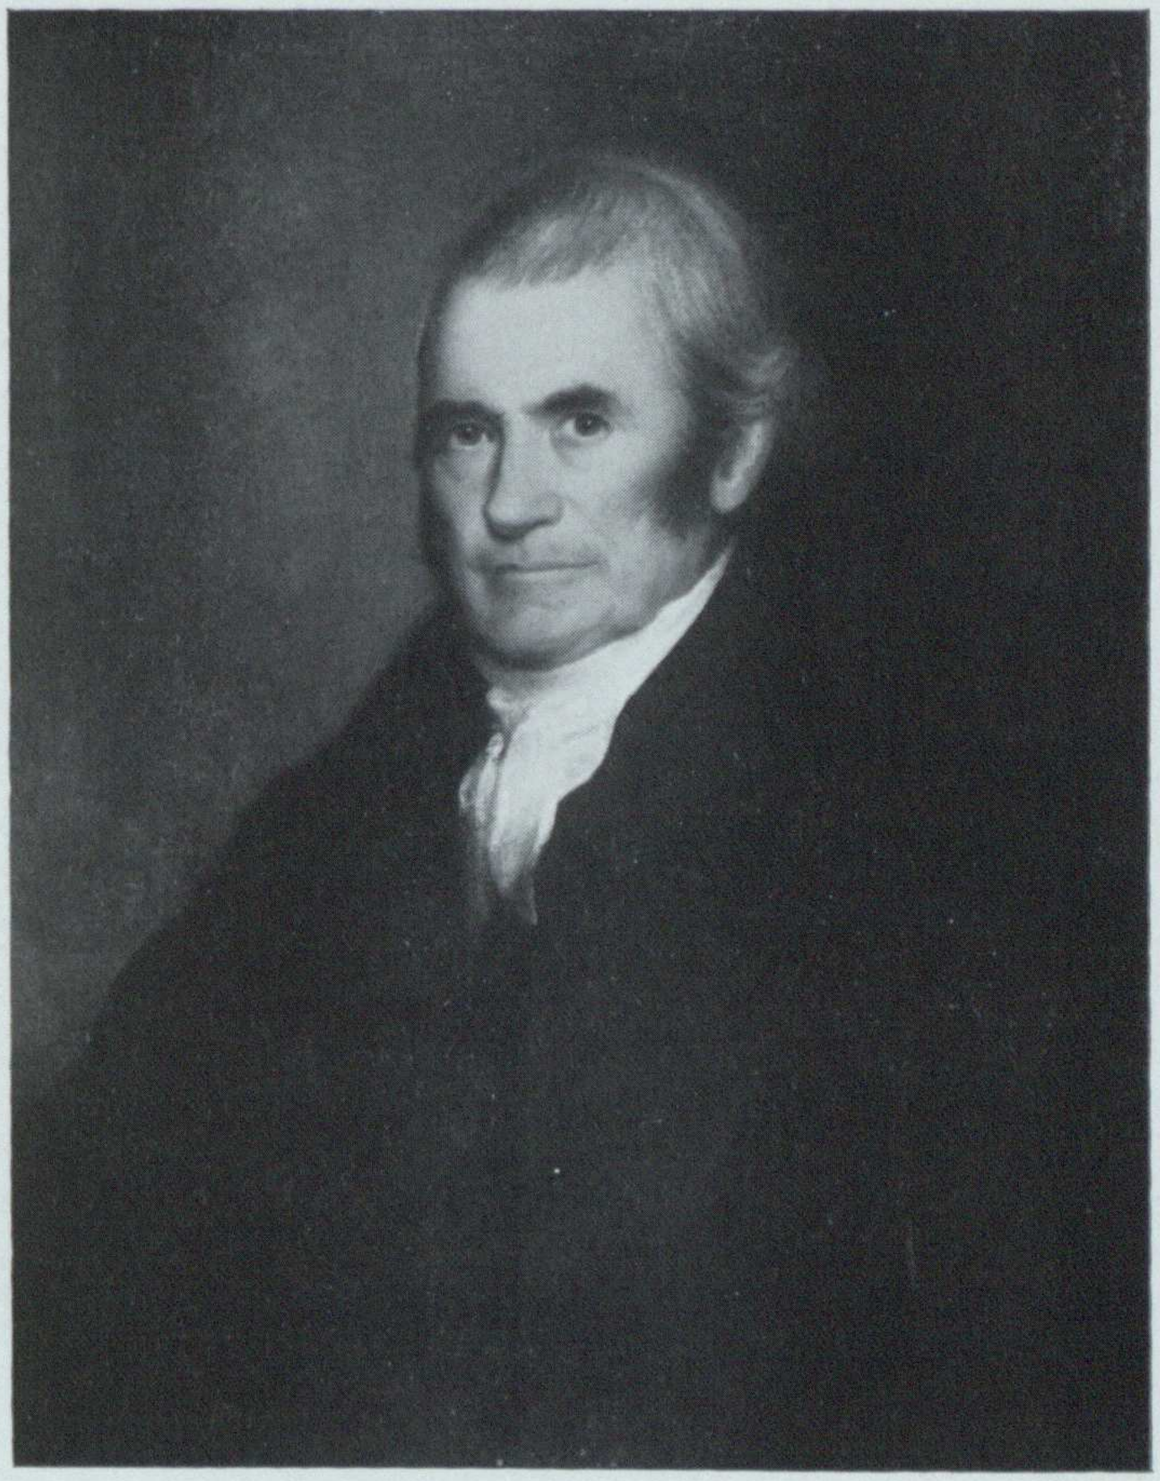


Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey
1850 - 1936



Miss Emma M. Gillett
1852 - 1927

In memory of the two courageous women who founded the Washington College of Law in 1896 to make it possible for women to pursue the study of law in an organized law school.



JOHN MARSHALL

"We must never forget that it is a Constitution we are expounding"

MEASURED by the permanence and importance of the results he achieved, Marshall is one of the very greatest of Americans. To have made his Court the recognized interpreter of our fundamental law, to have more than any other individual given to the people of the United States a clear understanding of the Constitution, and a love for the principles on which our Federal System is based, are services worthy of lasting remembrance. By prior preparation, by intellectual endowment, by the sweetness of his temper and the persuasive form of his personality, he was ideally fitted for the work which, in the province of God, he was called upon to do.

JOSEPH STORY

THE strength of Justice Story lay in the number and diversity of his gifts, combined with a Herculean capacity for labor. Although a learned man, he was the master of his learning, and not its slave. His mind was useful and progressive to the end and he represented the best aspirations of American law and life. His moral quality was singularly pure. As a citizen, in the ordinary relations and activities of life, he was ideal. Tried by the quantity, quality and variety of his legal work, and by the influence which it has exerted, and is still exerting upon the law, he is the foremost jurist America has produced.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

Upon his resignation it was written:

"THERE are few who, reading Justice Holmes' letter of resignation, will not feel that they touch on a life done in the great style. This, they will say, is how to live, and this is how to stop, with every power gone but with all its flags flying. Here is the heroic life complete, in which nothing has been shirked and nothing denied—not battle or death, or the unfathomable mystery of the universe, or the loneliness of thought, or the humors and the beauties of the human heritage. This is the whole of it. He has had what existence has to offer; all that is real, everything of experience, of friendship and of love, and the highest company of the mind, and honor, and the profoundest influence—everything is his that remains when illusion falls away and leaves neither fear nor disappointment in its wake.'

The Constitution states the purpose of the Fraternity shall be to broaden the field of legal knowledge; to preserve and improve the standards of the legal profession; to foster friendship and comradeship among the members of this organization; and to promote their moral, intellectual and professional well-being and the welfare of the law schools in which chapters of the Fraternity shall be established.

When Alpha Rho Chapter was instituted at Washington College of Law ten students were initiated and Dr. Roscoe J. C. Dorsey became Faculty Advisor. There are now forty active members and Professors Roscoe J. C. Dorsey, Arthur C. Keefer, Hinman D. Folsom, Frederick A. Ballard, and J. Harry Welch are also members.

The Fraternity has been active in school functions; its members have held many of the outstanding offices in the College and in 1939 the Fraternity, through the Sigma Delta Kappa "Sweetheart Dance" established a scholarship fund.

The Fraternity is governed by its High Court of Chancery, a bi-annual convention composed of delegates from each of the Chapters. The Executive Council composed of the National Officers handles the details of administration during the interval between sessions of the High Court of Chancery.

While the membership has been carefully limited to uphold the sound philosophy and fraternal ideals of its founders, its growth has been slow but substantial. It now totals over 3,000, and its 22 active (undergraduate) and 11 alumni chapters are international in scope. Its membership has always included a substantial representation in Congress, on the benches of most of the highest Courts, as well as the Diplomatic Service. The National Headquarters located in the building owned by the Fraternity provide congenial surroundings for the meetings of the local chapters in Washington.

The Owl of Sigma Nu Phi, the official journal of the Fraterity, is published quarterly. Its comprehensive treatment of current legal as well as fraternity events has earned it a place in most of the larger law libraries throughout the country.

Theta Chapter offers three annual awards, two for scholastic standing, and one for service to the Fraternity and the College. This latter, the Vandoren Award, consisting of a key and the inscription of the winenr's name on the Vandoren Plaque is highly coveted by the members of the Senior Class.

IN the year of 1939, a club was organized in Washington College of Law by members of the junior and senior classes. The purpose of the club at that time was in the nature of a voluntary association for mutual improvement and assistance in the study of law.

At this time, the by-laws and constitution were formulated and the name chosen for the club was "The Blackstone Club, Washington College of Law," and by holding meetings at regularly designated times, electing officers and carrying on its normal and intended functions as conceived in its organization, has definitely advanced toward its original objectives.

The Club has progressed during the year with the approval of Dean Riley and the Board of Trustees and has chosen Dr. James A. Waddell, professor in Washington College of Law, as faculty advisor.

Phi Delta Delta Women's Legal Fraternity was founded at the University of Southern California and was incorporated under California laws, October 28, 1912, in order to "promote the highest standard of professional ethics and culture among women in law schools and in the legal profession at large."

The national program of Phi Delta Delta is to assist in crime prevention, betterment of our social structure, and furtherance of respect for the law. This includes much study and research, the findings from which are made available to members who are invited to speak at clubs and on the radio. A portion of the fraternity's endowment fund is available for student loans to members in their senior year. A national professional advisory committee is maintained by Phi Delta Delta to give advice and guidance to members of the fraternity in the establishment of or continuance of the practice of law and the utilization of their legal education in other fields of activity.

Beta Chapter, in addition to holding regular business and social meetings, has inaugurated the policy of giving "Forum Dinners" several times each year, at which men and women of prominence lead discussions.

Beta Chapter annually presents a gold scholarship key to the Phi Delta Delta graduate attaining the highest scholastic average for the three year course, thus encouraging high standards of scholarship.

Kappa Beta Pi was the first legal sorority in the world.

Epsilon Chapter, the first to be established outside of the City of Chicago, was installed at Washington College of Law on May 15, 1916. In 1925 Kappa Beta Pi attained the distinction of being the first international sorority in the world with a chapter installed in Canada. Alpha Omicron Chapter was installed at the University of Paris two years later. This was the first Greek letter fraternal organization, either general or professional, to be established on the Continent of Europe. Today members of Kappa Beta Pi may be found throughout the United States, Canada, England, France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Brazil, China and South Africa, with a total of 46 chapters.

Vitally interested as it is in the legal profession, Kappa Beta Pi has never failed to promote the best interest of that profession. From time to time the national organization has conducted many essay contests, open to all undergraduate women law students and individual chapters have established scholarships and engaged in legal aid. With a view to stimulating interest in the post graduate work, Epsilon Chapter has founded a post graduate scholarship at the Washington College of Law. The Kappa Key is awarded every year at the annual commencement exercises of the College, to the member of Epsilon who obtains the highest scholastic standing for the three-year course.

Among the outstanding members of Kappa Beta Pi are Judge Genevieve Cline, of the United States Customs Court in New York, the first woman to become a Federal Judge, and Judge Florence Allen, who was appointed by President Roosevelt to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey was an honorary member of Epsilon Chapter from the time of its installation until her death.

MUSSEY LAW CONGRESS

Founded: December 19, 1935.

Jus Sub Jure—Justice Under Law

With that as its banner and motto, the Mussey Law Congress has become one of the College's outstanding functions, an integral part of school life. Inspired by recognition of the fact that "experience is the best teacher" several enterprising students of the Washington College of Law in December, 1935, grouped together and formed this organization. Their purpose—to create interest in active appellate work. The Congress today is a lasting tribute to the foresight and efforts of those charter members: Bernard M. Acher, Edgar L. Bayol, Doris E. Carlton, Clyde C. Hurtt, Ray H. Holy, R. Clyde Larkin, Jack B. Love, Mary Lewis Martin, Edwin Joe Mayhall, Arleigh M. Selke, and Wayne H. Smith.

Beginning its existence under the leadership of Dr. George P. Lamb, its faculty adviser, the Congress, inspired by such leadership, has progressed far beyond the expectations of those who are responsible for its being.

Today, under the supervision of Howard Boyd, well-known in trial work, and the guidance and support of Dean Grace Hays Riley, the sponsor of the Congress, the organization continues to grow, to foster a spirit of friendly argument, to give its members the benefit which derives from actual practice.

The Alumni Association, being founded during the school year, 1902-3, with the purpose of advancing college interests and the interests of its alumni and to further the spirit of good fellowship existent at the college, has progressed throughout its years of being. Today it is one of the important functions of the Washington College of Law. It has to its credit such outstanding contributions as the establishment of the Belva A. Lockwood Memorial Scholarship in 1919, its efforts toward raising the Endowment Fund of the Washington College of Law in cooperation with Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey and the establishment of the Gillett and Hegarty Memorial Funds. True to its object and purpose the Alumni Association is still endeavoring to carry on in its service and loyalty to the college.

TIME MARCHES ON

1896

The Woman's Law Class started by Ellen Spencer Mussey and Emma M. Gillett with registration of three women, holding classes in the offices of Mrs. Mussey.

1897

Nine students enrolled, having as lecturers several prominent jurists.

1898

Incorporated as Washington College of Law, becoming co-educational and securing as president of the board of trustees the Honorable Edward F. Bingham, Chief Justice of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

1899

School held first commencement, having six graduates.

1901

Edwin C. Dutton, now President of the Board of Trustees, was among graduates.
School occupied various rented quarters necessitated by its expansion.
Dr. Roscoe J. C. Dorsey, at present professor in the Post Graduate school, became a member of the faculty.

1914

Edwin A. ("Doc") Mooers, present member of the full-time faculty, received sheepskin.

1915

Kathryn Sellers, Class of '13, appointed Judge of Juvenile Court, the first woman to be appointed to this bench in the District of Columbia.

1921

Mary O'Toole, Class of '08, appointed Justice of Municipal Court of District of Columbia, the first woman to sit on that bench.
School purchased own property at 1315 K Street, N. W.

1923

Mrs. Rebekah S. Greathouse, graduate of the college and member of the faculty, appointed Assistant United States Attorney.

1926

Dr. Edwin C. Dutton appointed President of Board of Trustees, succeeding Judge Stanton F. Peele.
School year book ("THE BRIEF") came into being.
Dean Grace Hays Riley appointed and college purchased present quarters at 2000 G Street, N. W.

1927

Miss Annabel Matthews appointed to represent United States at international conference on double taxation held in London, and Miss Mabel Owen appointed attorney to the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals. These graduates of the college were the first women to hold such positions.

1930

Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey, founder of the college; and Dean Grace Hays Riley, Judge Kathryn Sellers, Judge Mary O'Toole, Miss M. Pearl McCall, Assistant District Attorney, and Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, all graduates of the college, were included in the list of 50 women whose services were considered outstanding in civic affairs by a local newspaper.

1933

J. Edward Burroughs, Jr., and Henry A. Schweinhaut, members of the faculty, appointed Assistant United States Attorneys.

1935

Robert E. Freer, member of the faculty, appointed Federal Trade Commissioner.

Mussey Law Congress started by several enterprising students.

1936

Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey, lawyer, humanitarian and founder of the college, died at her home on the eve of her 86th birthday.

1939

American Bar Association standards adopted, with educational admission requirement of two years of college work at an approved school. Full time faculty appointed—Dean Grace Hays Riley, Dr. Edwin A. Mooers, Dr. Hamilton Vreeland, Jr., Prof. Hinman D. Folsom and Prof. Helen B. Arthur.

New library to meet requirements of Bar Association standards completed.

College graduates largest class—132 candidates receive degree.

1940

The graduates and student body join with the "BRIEF" staff in wishing the administrative officers and members of the faculty continued success and progress, justly deserved, and view with pride the past growth and accomplishments of the Washington College of Law, their Alma Mater.

The Washington College of Law was provisionally approved by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association at its meeting held on Tuesday, May 14th. This approval was ratified by the Board of Governors of the Association, held shortly thereafter—and—

And so—TIME MARCHES ON!

TO THE GRADUATES, 1940

When first you came, this knowledge to acquire,
Hesitant, and uninformed upon the Law,
Yet driven by Ambition's strong desire,
From this fine school, some Legal Lore to draw.

Endless, it seemed, the path you had to follow
And strewn with hurdles far too high to mount.
At times whate'er you did, the gain seemed hollow,
Your efforts, study, striving, did not count.

But ably you have done, the coveted degree,
Mortar, gown and scroll are justly earned.
Just one more step to be an "Attorney",
The rudiments of legal practice learned.

An interval, with Graduation's Laurels on you,
Then onward, further honors to be won.
The grind that you have finished, just a preview,
Life's hardest task, they say, has just begun.

The Annotator

THE LAWYER PROFITS BY HIS EFFORTS

I. HE HAS A COMPLETE LIBRARY CONSISTING of many thousands of volumes at his disposal.

II. HE MAKES YOUR ENTIRE SEARCH. The author of the AMERICAN LAW REPORT ANNOTATION (the A.L.R. kind), when assigned a point of law, searches out every possible source of information on the subject, collecting all cases in point.

III. HE PROVIDES CERTAINTY OF EXHAUSTIVE AND THOROUGH COVERAGE. With all of the authorities before him he appraises each case with the mind of an expert in order that he may show its exact bearing on the subject.

IV. HE FURNISHES YOU A PRE-PREPARED BRIEF. By utilizing his experience as an expert legal author he draws from the cases the rules and applications, and when there are various views he gives you the benefit of wise editorial comment thereby avoiding case confusion from which the individual briefer often suffers.

V. HE HELPS YOU AVOID THE DRUDGERY OF SEARCH. The A.L.R. owner with over 12,000 of these carefully prepared annotations is saved many hours of search and briefing time.
